

TIMES PICTURE PAGE OF LIVE VIEWS AND NEWS

CROQUET IS STILL POPULAR among Washingtonians and every evening you can witness a spirited game on Meridian Hill, where the level ground makes it possible to execute some splendid shots. You'd be surprised to know how mad some people can get over a croquet game.

—Times Staff Photographer.

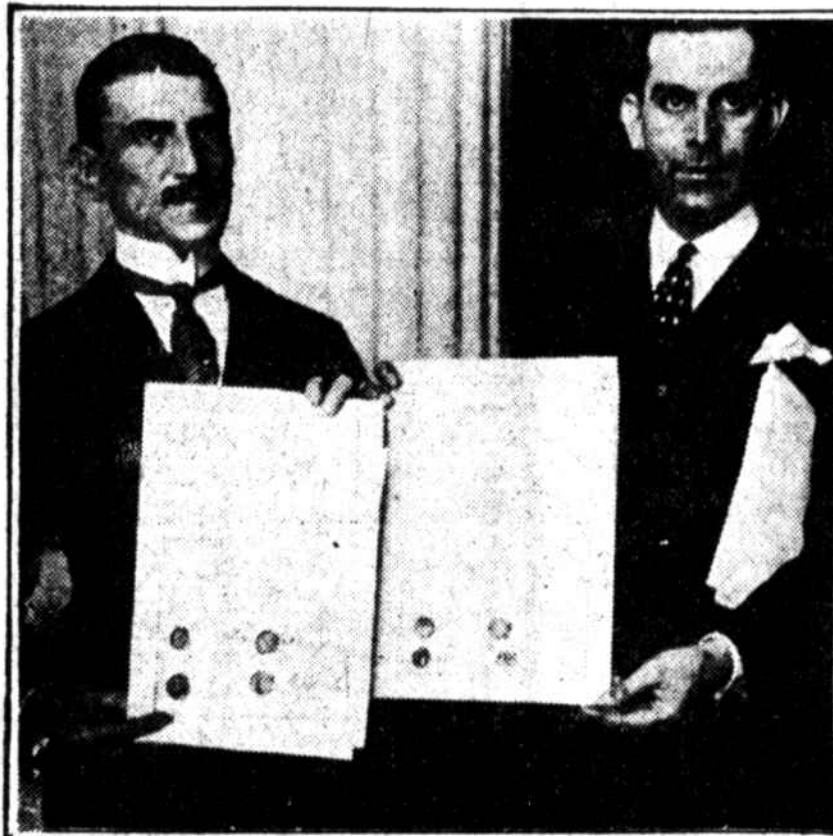

HERE'S A STUDIO PORTRAIT of Miss Evan Burrows Fontaine, famous English dancer, who has instituted legal proceedings against Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, Yale student and son of Harry Payne Whitney. She alleges that young Whitney is the father of her eighteen-month-old son, and that he promised to marry her. She not only seeks heart balm for herself, but wants her son legitimized by Whitney.

—Underwood.

"TEA AT SEA" might be the title of this picture, but it isn't, because it was taken at Washington's bathing beach, where attractive water nymphs have started the fad of sipping tea between swims and dives. Left to right these National Capital girls are Mary Jepps, Eleanor Griffith, Ingrid Zanders, and Ruth Allenby.

—National Photo.

THESE ARE WHAT the Kaiser would call "scraps of paper"—mere treaties between Chile and Peru—which were signed in Washington after a conference of several weeks. They are expected to settle a boundary dispute which has lasted 50 years.

—Underwood.

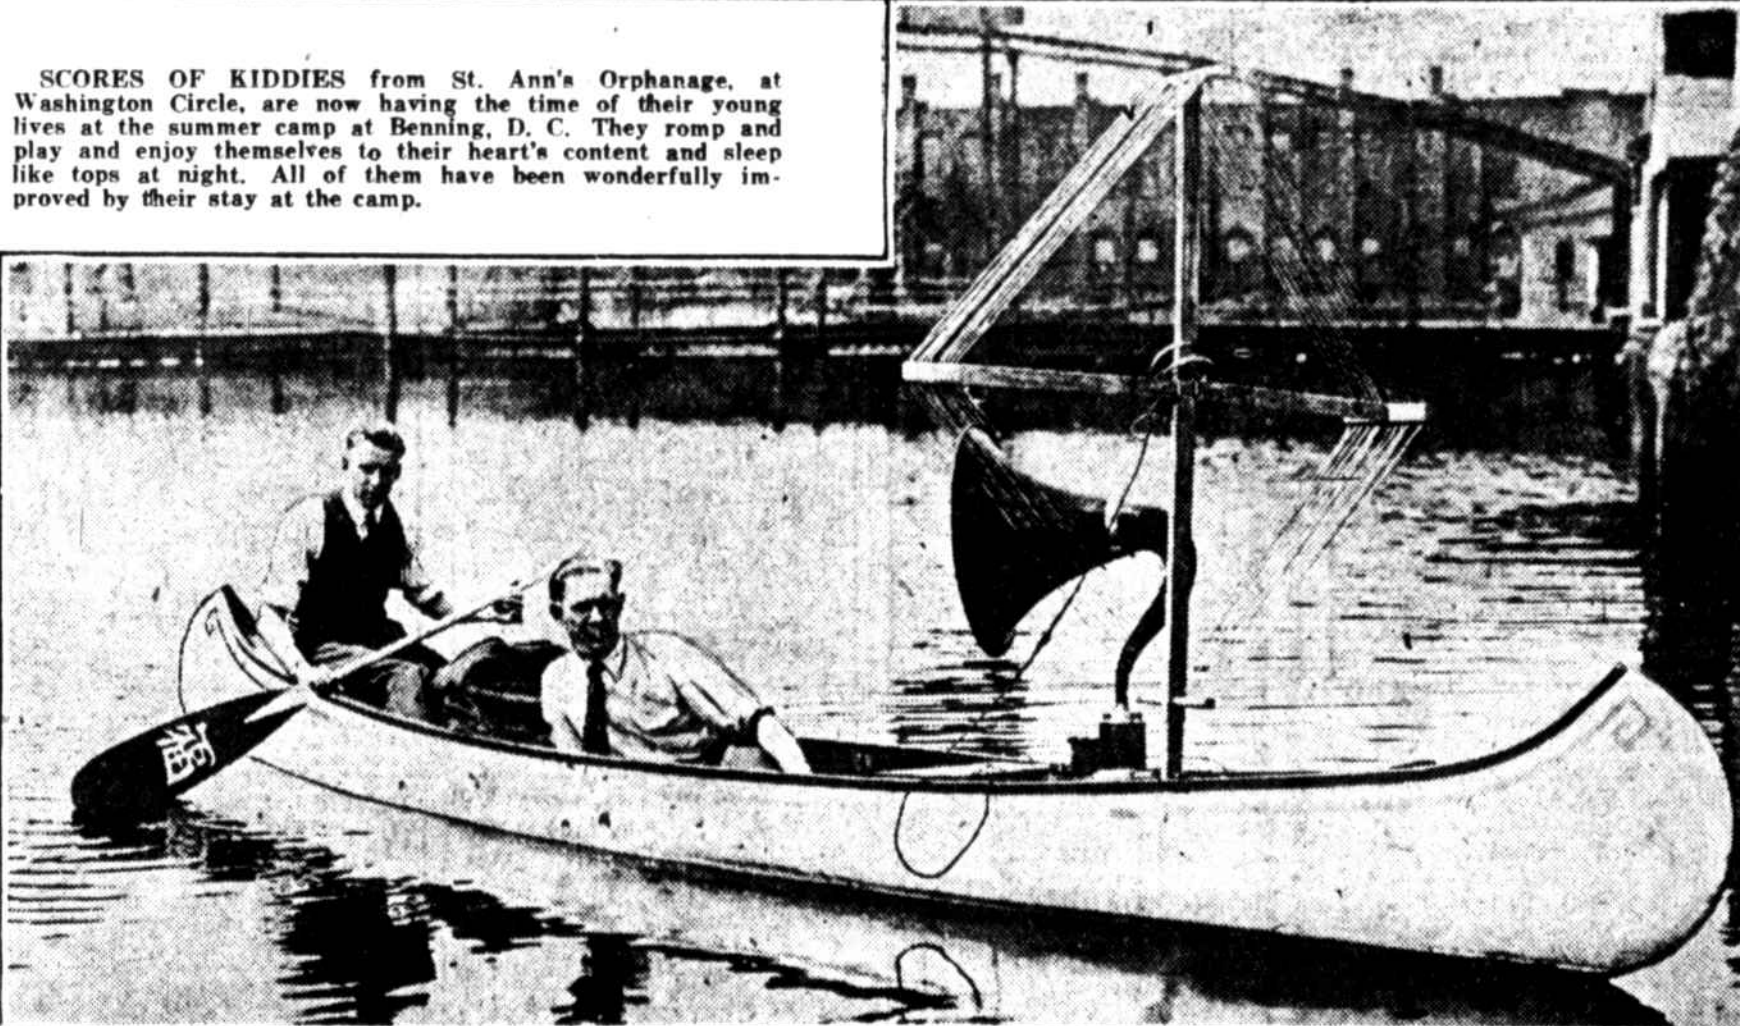

SCORES OF KIDDIES from St. Ann's Orphanage, at Washington Circle, are now having the time of their young lives at the summer camp at Benning, D. C. They romp and play and enjoy themselves to their heart's content and sleep like tops at night. All of them have been wonderfully improved by their stay at the camp.

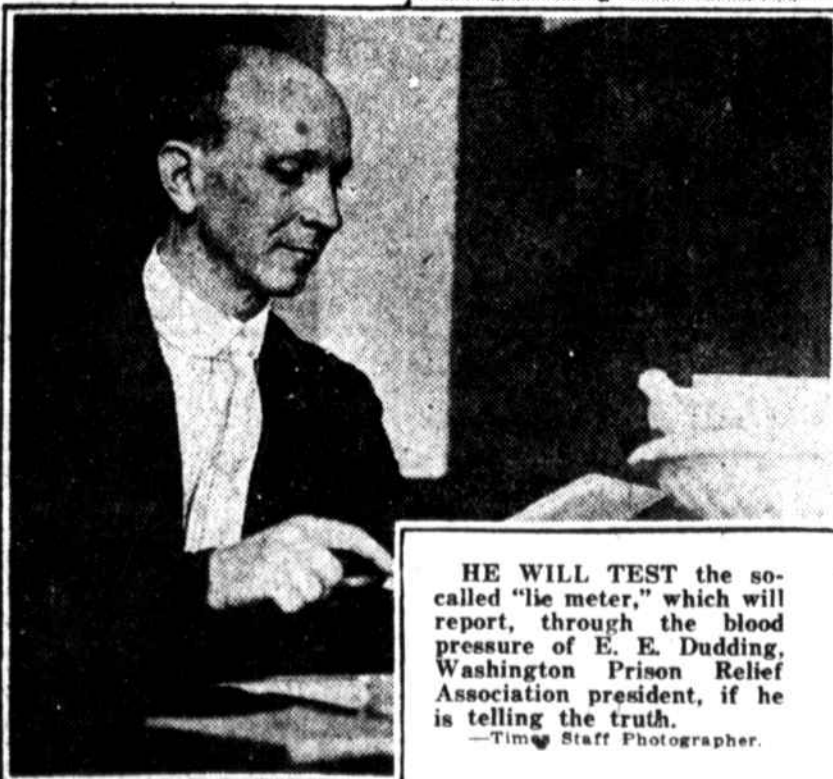

ENGLAND'S RICHEST GIRL, Edwina Ashley, has just married Lord Louis Mountbatten, who had as his best man the Prince of Wales. Four princesses of royal blood served as bridesmaids.

—International.

THIS BEATS THE PHONOGRAPH all hollow. Washington canoeists are rigging up radio receiving sets in their little craft and catching all the good music they want without exerting any effort.

—Underwood.

HE WILL TEST the so-called "lie meter," which will report, through the blood pressure of E. E. Dudding, Washington Prison Relief Association president, if he is telling the truth.

—Times Staff Photographer.

HE MAKES MUSIC with a carpenter's saw and fiddler's bow. Those who heard James Barritt play in the evangelists' tent in north-east Washington last night applauded him warmly.

SHOULD A HUSBAND 105 years old deceive his wife into believing he is a youngster of ninety? Rabbi Solomon Miles, of Chicago, is accused by his wife of bamboozling her about his age.

P. and A.

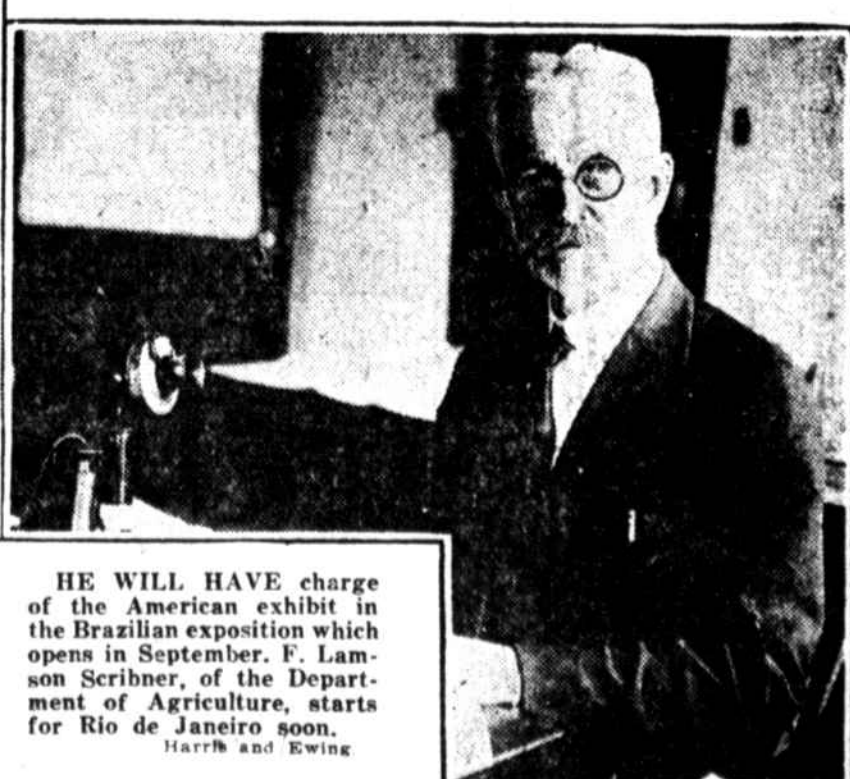

SHE WILL RUN for the governorship of New York and Mrs. Jennie MacMillan believes the combined solid vote of farmers and working men will elect her to the high office.

—International.

THIS INFANT PRODIGY, nineteen months old, son of Dr. and Mrs. Howard Felix Moore, 1744 Riggs place, is attracting attention because of his interesting conversations about aeroplanes.

HE WILL HAVE charge of the American exhibit in the Brazilian exposition which opens in September. F. Lamson Scribner, of the Department of Agriculture, starts for Rio de Janeiro soon.

Harrah and Ewing

See the News of the World

AT ALL LEADING THEATERS
SHOWING

INTERNATIONAL NEWS

Released by Universal
Film Exchanges